

WILLIAM & MARY

GLOBAL SCHOLARS PROGRAM

A year-long program for future leaders

Packaged academic and professional development offerings:

- Starting in August, cohort-specific social and academic activities including meals, panels, field trips, and networking
- A fall integrative policy and research course in pressing global topics
Including but not limited to: Chinese development finance, digital inclusion and governance, global health, international security, and human rights.
- An immersive D.C.-based winter break seminar focused on site visits and industry experts from the global policy world
Includes meeting with policymakers from the Defense Department, State Department, the National Security Council, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and the U.S. Agency for International Development.
- A spring break study abroad trip to Brussels and Paris
- A summer internship with the flexibility to occur virtually, in Washington, D.C., or internationally.

Students will:

Be matched with two W&M mentors to support their career objectives.

Learn to converse with confidence with policymakers on a range of current global issues.

Apply global policy and theory to professional, industry-based situations.

Evaluate their professional experience to determine future career path.

Learn more and apply at
wm.edu/dc/gsp

The Global Scholars Program is a collaboration between the William & Mary Washington Center and the Global Research Institute