

“Prosecutorial Abuse and the Duke Lacrosse Case”

September 14, 2007, 2:00 – 3:30
Hennage Auditorium, Colonial Williamsburg

Sponsored by the Institute of Bill of Rights Law
This is a William & Mary Constitution Day Event

Stuart Taylor of the National Journal and author of the upcoming book about the Duke Lacrosse case, Until Proven Innocent, will discuss prosecutorial abuse and the “presumption of guilt” in parts of the Duke community, including the so-called group of 88—faculty who signed a public statement about the alleged incident.

Also participating in the discussion are three faculty members from Duke Law School, including Jim Coleman, Erwin Chemerinsky, and Walter Dellinger. Jim Coleman, who was formerly an attorney in private practice and then government service, was appointed by the Duke president to investigate the alleged incident with the Duke lacrosse players. Erwin Chemerinsky is a noted Supreme Court advocate and author of several books on constitutional law. Walter Dellinger, former Solicitor General of the United States, has argued numerous cases before the Supreme Court and published articles on constitutional issues in several scholarly journals.

A book signing by the author will be held at William & Mary Law School, which is located down the road from Colonial Williamsburg, shortly following the program.

There is no charge but tickets are required for admission. Email IBRL@wm.edu to request your ticket. Additional information about the Institute of Bill of Rights Law is available on-line at www.IBRL.org.

FRIDAY, September 14, 2007

2:00 - 3:30 pm: Prosecutorial Abuse and the Duke Lacrosse Case

Hennage Auditorium
DeWitt Wallace Decorative Arts Museum

Stuart Taylor*
Erwin Chemerinsky
James E. Coleman
Walter Dellinger

*Stuart Taylor will be signing his new book, Until Proven Innocent: Political Correctness and the Shameful Injustices of the Duke Lacrosse Case in the lobby of the Law School after 3:30 pm. Books will be available for sale at the Law School from 3:30 - 6:00 pm and other times during the Supreme Court Preview. Credit cards will be accepted.