The Sociology Program

The Sociology curriculum offers structure and flexibility for students majoring or minoring in sociology and for students taking sociology courses for distribution credit. In addition to preparing students for graduate programs in sociology, we provide an excellent liberal arts background for postgraduate and professional training and for careers in public service and administration, law, business, medicine, journalism and many other professions.

Requirements for Major

Required Credit Hours: 33

Major Computing Requirement: SOCL 353 or an approved equivalent statistics course.

Major Writing Requirement: Successful completion of either a Senior Capstone Seminar or Honors (495-496).

Core Requirements:

- 250 (Principles of Sociology) [prerequisite for SOCL 351 and SOCL 353]
- 351 (Sociological Theory);
- 352 (Methods of Social Research);
- 353 (Social Statistics);
- A Senior Capstone Seminar or 495-496 (Honors).

Students also must take at least six additional courses, five of which must be numbered 300 and above. For students declaring Sociology as a major, the recommended sequence of courses is:

- Freshman or Sophomore year: 250 (Principles of Sociology)
- Fall of Sophomore or Junior year: 351 (Sociological Theory) and/or 352 (Methods of Social Research)
- Spring of Sophomore or Junior year: 353 (Social Statistics) While it is highly recommended that sociology majors take SOCL 353 to fulfill the department's statistics requirement, this requirement may also be met with one of the following courses: BUAD 231, ECON 307, KINE 394, MATH 106, or PSYC 301.
- Senior year (either Fall or Spring): a Senior Capstone Seminar Each academic year, the department will offer four senior capstone seminars (two in the fall semester, two in the spring semester). The topics and professors for these courses will vary year to year. The department chair will inform rising seniors, prior to their registration for their senior fall semester, of their capstone choices. Rising seniors will then express their preferences to the department chair. Prerequisites for these capstone courses are SOCL250, SOCL351, SOCL352, and SOCL353 (or an approved equivalent statistics course). Exceptions to these prerequisites may be made on a case-by-case basis by the department chair. A student completing Sociology Honors is not required to take a senior capstone seminar.

Requirements for Minor

Required Credit Hours: 18

Core Requirements: Students must take 250 (Principles of Sociology) and at least five other courses, four of which must be at the 300 or 400 level.

Description of Courses

150. Freshman Seminar.

Fall and Spring (3,3) Staff.

This seminar is an introduction to the concepts and methods of sociology through the exploration of a specific topic. Details of each course offering and the topic of concentration are provided in the schedule.

151W. Freshman Seminar: Gender in non-Western Cultures.

(GER 4B) Fall or Spring (4) Ozyegin.

This seminar examines the practices and conceptualizations of gender and their social and cultural consequences in selected non-Western societies. Normally open to first-year students only. (Cross listed with WMST 151W)

203. American Society.

(GER 3) Fall and Spring (3,3) Staff.

This course explores a variety of issues about American Society and its changing nature. Attention is given to selected demographic, historical, cultural, organizational and institutional features of American society and their consequences for lifestyles, social trends and public policy.

204. Social Problems.

(GER 3) Fall and Spring (3,3) Staff.

This course explores problems in society and their social construction. Explores how sociologists approach issues such as inequality by race, class and gender. Other topics covered may include violence, environmental degradation and social deviance.

250. Principles of Sociology.

(GER 3) Fall and Spring (3,3) Staff.

This course is an introduction to sociology. It examines historical traditions, classical writers and their theories and basic sociological concepts. Sociological research is used to illustrate how sociologists help us understand the relationships between the social world and the individual. (Formerly SOCL 210)

275W. University Seminar.

Fall and Spring (4) Staff.

A reading-, writing-, and discussion-intensive seminar. Topics vary by semester and by instructor. Restricted to transfer students and co-enrolled students. Students receiving a grade of "C-" or better in the seminar will have satisfied the lower-division writing requirement. This course does not fulfill the Freshman Seminar requirement.

301. Society and the Individual.

(GER 3) Fall or Spring (3), Staff.

This course examines major features of modern societies and typical individual adaptations to them. It explores issues such as the potential for individual autonomy and freedom generated by modern societies as well as the constraints placed on individuals by societies. (Formerly SOCL 205)

302. Criminology.

Fall or Spring (3) Aday, Ousey. Required previous course: any 200-level sociology course.

This course examines justice and civility in law and law enforcement. Two interrelated parts are explored: (1) the creation and administration of criminal law; and (2) the development of patterns of behavior that violate criminal laws. (Formerly SOCL 322)

304. Gender in Society.

Fall or Spring (3) Bickham Mendez, Slevin.

This course explores different theoretical approaches to gender and its intersections with other sources of inequality such as race, class and age. Possible topics include: gender and sexuality, masculinities, gender and the body, and inequalities in the workplace and home. (Formerly SOCL 329)

306. Urban Sociology.Fall or Spring (3) Saporito.

This course examines the emergence of cities, particularly urbanization in the U.S. Explores urban structure from ecological and social perspectives, selected problems associated with urban growth including housing, segregation, education, crime and politics. (Formerly SOCL 413)

307. Sociology of Education.Fall or Spring (3) Saporito, Royster.

This course examines education as an institution that perpetuates inequality but also serves as a pathway for social mobility. It explores current educational issues such as equality of educational opportunity by race, class and gender, school segregation, and school accountability. (Formerly SOCL 335)

308. Environmental Sociology.Fall or Spring (3) Roberts.

This course examines why some environmental risks gain attention while others are ignored, how communities and individuals respond to environmental hazards, how environmental concern is measured, characteristics of the environmental movement and whether our society can become sustainable. (Formerly SOCL 348)

309. Media and Society.Fall or Spring (3) Linneman, Joyce.

This course examines the media as an institution that influences and is influenced by other institutions. Possible topics include: media industries as complex organizations, media influence on politics, audience reception of media content, and the implications of new media technologies.

310. Wealth, Power, and Inequality.Fall or Spring (3) Ozyegin, Royster, Roberts.

This course explores inequality and how it is created and maintained. It takes a comparative, in-depth look at class and stratification in society, examining inequality in income, wealth, prestige, and power, and the cultural and economic systems that maintain it. (Formerly SOCL 424)

311. Birth, Sex, Death: Population and Society.Fall or Spring (3) Sohoni.

This course examines debates about the effects of population growth on the environment, food supplies, distribution of resources, and standards of living. It explores the causes and consequences of population growth, composition, and distribution in economically developed and underdeveloped areas. (Formerly SOCL 319)

312. Comparative Sociology.(4B) Fall and Spring (3,3) Ozyegin.

This course explores non-Western societies, including critical examination of the ways in which non-Western cultures have been interpreted in the West. Topics include gender, class, and race-based stratification; family systems; industrialization; urbanization; international migration; globalization; national cultures as "imagined communities." (Cross listed with WMST 312) (Formerly SOCL 206)

313. Globalization and International Development.(GER 4B) Fall (3) Bickham Mendez.

This course examines the impact of globalization on the social, cultural and economic development of "non-Western" societies. Case studies will emphasize interconnections between global processes and local people. Possible topics: global economy, transnational migration, human rights, gender, and racial/ethnic diasporas. (Formerly SOCL 354)

332. Families and Kinship.Fall or Spring (3) Jenkins.

This course grapples with the complex issues of contemporary family life by analyzing historical and current variations in family forms and practices. We pay particular attention to how family experiences are shaped by gender, race, ethnicity, sexuality, and socio-economic status.

337. Immigration, Assimilation and Ethnicity.Fall or Spring (3) Sohoni, Royster.

This course explores three questions: the forces that influence people to leave their own countries for the U.S.; how immigrants and their children adapt to their new surroundings; the role of historical and contemporary immigration on race/ethnic relations. (Formerly SOCL 326)

351. Sociological Theory.Fall (3) Staff. Prerequisite: SOCL 250.

This course explores classical and modern sociological theories and theorists. Examined also is the development of the discipline of sociology during the 19th and 20th centuries. (Formerly SOCL 303)

352. Methods of Social Research.Fall (3) Staff. Recommended Previous Course: SOCL 250.

This course introduces students to the methods used by social scientists. Specifically, students learn skills necessary to evaluate the strengths/weaknesses of quantitative and qualitative approaches, interpret the main arguments of different methods, and assess whether research findings support stated conclusions. (Formerly SOCL 305)

353. Social Statistics.(GER 1) Spring (3) Staff. Prerequisite: SOCL 250 or by consent of instructor. Recommended Previous Course: SOCL 352.

This course concentrates on inference and the use of multivariate techniques for uncovering explanatory relationships among variables. Students learn how to interpret statistical results, as well as convey results verbally and through tables and graphs. Laboratory activities use statistical software. (Formerly SOCL 401)

360. Sociology of Sport.Spring (3) Staff. (Course may not be offered regularly)

This course examines the structure, processes and problems of sport as an institutionalized social system. Topics include: youth sport programs, intercollegiate athletics, sport and deviant behavior. Examines the relationships between sport, race, gender, education, politics, religion, the economy.

361. Social Movements and Social Change.Fall or Spring (3) Bickham Mendez, Linneman.
