Setting: Anywhere that gives the participants plenty of space to draw.

Activity Set-up:

I. Activity leader asks the group members to let their minds expand in order to allow for different ways of thinking and perceiving the world around them and to open the minds to others and their ways of thinking and perceiving.

II. The leader explains that the group is going to be asked to respond to some questions and then to explain why they responded as they did.

III. Questions can be asked in any number of ways, here are two examples: 1. Pick and choose the questions that you feel will generate the most discussion and have everyone respond. 2. Write all the questions on a poster board and ask participants to respond to a question of their choosing. Continue until all participants have had an opportunity to share.

IV. Have participants create drawings of their responses, then compare the drawings. *

V. After everyone has had a chance to share the leader initiates a processing discussion.

* Optional. If you have enough time to draw, it is a fun way to keep the participants interested. Supplies are available for checkout in the PRC.
