College of William & Mary
Tokyo, Japan

Keio University Exchange

The tuition exchange agreement between the College of William and Mary and Keio University allows William and Mary students to pay their regular tuition to William and Mary while taking classes at Keio in Tokyo, Japan. Keio University is Japan’s oldest institution of higher education and is founded on the principle of academic excellence.

Keio University has a total of five campuses. Mita and Shinanomachi campuses are in Tokyo. Hiyoshi, Yagami, and Shonan Fujisawa campuses are in Kanagawa prefecture. The international center branch offices are also located on the Hiyoshi and Yagami campuses. Keio University has approximately 28,000 undergraduates with a thriving study abroad program that includes exchange programs with several American, Canadian, European, and Australian Universities.

Students enroll in the Japanese Language program at the Center for Japanese Studies. There are four levels (elementary to advanced) and students will be assigned to an appropriate level based on the results of a placement test. Students are housed in dormitories, or in some cases, with home stays.