

February 2014

College of William and Mary

Applied Research Center Student Newsletter

Nansemond Parkway Elementary School's Career Day

Brandt and Abby are pictured above with the solar panel demonstration.

Amy took her "Fill the Gap" project to another level by participating in Nansemond Parkway Elementary School's Career Day on February 21st. Fourth and first graders along with kindergartners filled the school's gym in the morning and rotated through numerous Career Day exhibits. Amy and Brandt provided hands-on activities for the students that included a working solar panel demonstration and a microscope viewing activity. One of the highlights of the morning was seeing Amy's granddaughter, Abby, who rotated through the exhibits with her fourth grade class.