The Studio for Teaching & Learning Innovation

Mark Hofer, Ph.D - Director & Professor of Education
A little about me

- B.S. in History and Education - U. of Notre Dame, 1995
- High school history teacher and tech coordinator, 1995-1999
- PhD in Instructional Technology - University of Virginia, 2003
- Assistant Professor, Towson University, 2003-2005
- Professor, William & Mary, 2005-Present
- Co-Dir., Center for Innovation in Learning Design, 2016-2019
- Director, Studio for Teaching & Learning Innovation, 2019-Present
Established April, 2019

Support and lead teaching & learning initiatives across university Faculty, students in teaching roles, learning partners
Vision

The Studio for Teaching & Learning Innovation inspires and catalyzes the development of transformative teaching and learning experiences. We work together with courage, positive intent, and grace to sustain an inclusive and vibrant learning community for faculty, students and staff across the university.
2019-2020 Advisory Council

- Nine tenure-eligible faculty representing all five units
- One NTE faculty member
- Two students - one undergraduate, one graduate
- Leadership partners
  - A&S Graduate Center
  - Center for the Liberal Arts
  - Global Education Office
  - Health & Wellness
  - Information Technology
  - Sharpe Community Scholars
  - Ukrop Innovation & Design Studio
  - W&M Libraries
  - W&M Washington Center
The Studio for Teaching & Learning Innovation
What is a studio?
The Studio for Teaching & Learning Innovation
The Studio for Teaching & Learning Innovation
Innovation in the Studio

Small adjustments
Reimagined experiences
New connections
Expanding boundaries
Creating usable knowledge
Key experiences and programs

Communities of Practice

Consultation Services

Institutes & Professional Development

Resources & Support

Innovation
Exciting initiatives beginning

- Experiential learning
- Student partnerships
- Graduate student mentoring
- Digital Humanities/Digital Scholarship Center
Open questions

- Academic technology support
- Online course development
- Innovation incubation process
- Communication/promotion
Questions/Discussion

Mark Hofer
mark.hofer@wm.edu
757-221-1713

Swem Library, G64

www.wm.edu/tlistudio