A1/B1 Academic Advising
- Sadler Center, Tidewater Room AB
The faculty advising system assists students as they make choices that will define their academic future. Learn helpful tips for making long-term plans and maximizing the course registration process.
PRESENTERS: Thomas J. Linneman, Faculty Director of Academic Advising

A2/B2 Diversity on Campus
- Tucker Hall, Room 127A
William & Mary is proud to create an environment in which we can all benefit from the richness of our community and foster a greater appreciation for diversity. The Center for Student Diversity partners with more than 50 student organizations interested in social justice and diversity in all of its forms. This session will highlight the programs and services available to students, as well as cultural activities and guest speakers sponsored by the office.
PRESENTERS: Kimberly Weatherly, Assistant Dean and Director, Center for Student Diversity; Shene Y. Owens, Associate Director; Center for Student Diversity; and Roxana Aguirre, Assistant Director, Center for Student Diversity

A3/B3 An Active Life: Intercolligate Athletics and Campus Recreation
- Bee McLeod Recreation Center, Miller Gym
PRESENTERS: Bob Gough, Associate Director for Campus Recreation, and Chris Morris, Head Coach, Men's Soccer

A4/B4 Fraternity & Sorority Life: A W&M Tradition Since 1776
- Admission Office, Session Room
In 1776, five students at W&M founded Phi Beta Kappa, the first organization to call itself a fraternity. It is only appropriate that W&M seeks to stimulate and subsidize intellectual exchange between faculty and students.
PRESENTER: Elizabeth Harbison, Interim Director of the Charles Center and Professor of Chemistry

A5/B5 Oh the Places You'll Go: Career Services and the Freshman Experience
- Sadler Center, Commonwealth Auditorium
Think career services are just for seniors? Think again! Join us for a myth-busting session that will reveal the many reasons to visit us during your first two years on campus. You will learn about the wide variety of programs and services available at the Office of Career Development & Professional Engagement and get a sneak preview of the MACE program, a career development initiative designed exclusively for freshmen and sophomores.
PRESENTERS: Kelly O'Shaughnessy, Associate Director, Career Engagement, and Lisa Randolph, Assistant Director, Experiential Learning

A6/B6 Research and Scholarship
- Raymond A. Mason School of Business, Brinkley Commons
Have you ever wanted to take a deeper dive into the writings of your favorite author? Or study great white sharks off the coast of South Africa? Did you know that there are financial resources to support you as you strive towards making these goals a reality? At W&M, 70% of undergraduates participate in a mentored research experience and nearly a quarter are published as primary or co-authors. Learn about how W&M seeks to stimulate and subsidize intellectual exchange between faculty and students.
PRESENTER: Elizabeth Harbison, Interim Director of the Charles Center and Professor of Chemistry

A7/B7 STEM Programs Panel
- Integrated Science Center (ISC), Room 1127
W&M offers more than a dozen programs in STEM fields (science, technology, engineering and mathematics). Join us for an informational discussion and panel about STEM opportunities on campus.
PANELISTS: Dr. Doug Young, Distinguished Associate Professor of Chemistry, Caitlin Doelt ’22, Physics and Classics major, and Carson Stillman ’22, physics major

A8/B8 Study Abroad and International Opportunities
- Sadler Center, Tidewater Rooms ABC
Interested in studying abroad or have questions about international programs? With more than 40 summer, winter, semester and year-long study abroad programs on all seven continents, access to hundreds more and a wide range of other global opportunities, it's no wonder that in normal years, more than 55% of W&M students course the globe before graduation! Join us as we discuss all the kinds of international opportunities you will have on campus and around the world.
PRESENTER: Sylvia Mtmamofero, Director of Global Education, and student panelists
SESSION BLOCK C = 12:35-1:15 p.m.

C1 W&M’s Global Research Institute
• Sadler Center, Tidewater Room AB
At the Global Research Institute, we’re passionate about creating unparalleled hands-on research opportunities for students. In 10 different labs! Here, students at the beginning of their careers collaborate with peers, faculty and experts in their fields. From international diplomacy, justice, development, finance, security and more, you’ll learn how you can conduct research abroad, work for labs using data to improve policymaking and pitch your original ideas to win research funding and help solve global issues.
PRESENTER: David Trichler, Associate Director of the Global Research Institute

C2 From the Colonial Capital to the Nation’s Capital: W&M’s DC Center
• Raymond A. Mason School of Business, Brinkley Commons
Come learn about W&M’s Campus in the City! Last year, more than 200 students took courses with W&M professors in the W&M Washington Center. Study in D.C. courses combine academic rigor and real-world experience and are offered throughout the year. Topics range from politics to history, environment to the arts, news & media to community engagement and many include internships for academic credit.
PRESENTER: Erin Battle, Associate Director, W&M Washington Center

C3 Marine Sciences at W&M: A Sea of Opportunities
• McGlothlin-Street Hall, Room 20
W&M’s undergraduate program in marine science is jointly offered with the School of Marine Science and the Virginia Institute of Marine Science (VIMS). Join us to learn more about the marine science program, student experiences and the research being conducted at VIMS — the nation’s largest marine science center focused on coastal and estuarine science and education.
PRESENTER: Chris Hein, Co-Director of Marine Science minor

C4 Pre-Education
• Admission Office, Session Room
PRESENTER: Elizabeth Cavallari, Manager of Recruitment & Admission for the School of Education

C5 Pre-Health
• Integrated Science Center (ISC), Room 1127
PRESENTER: Ashleigh Everhardt Queen, Allied Health Professions Advisor, Professor of Kinesiology

C6 Pre-Law
• Tucker Hall, Room 127A
PRESENTER: Kelsey Vita, Assistant Pre-Law Advisor and 2L Student at William & Mary Law School

C7 Flourishing in 8D
• Sadler Center, Tidewater Room AB
Visit the beautiful McLeod Tyler Wellness Center and join a conversation to learn how W&M is approaching wellness, flourishing and resilience. Hear about the wide variety of services and programs that are offered at the wellness center. Engage in a discussion about how students develop their own harmony with the eight dimensions of wellness.
PRESENTER: Kelly Crace, Associate Vice President for Health & Wellness

C8 COLL Curriculum: Innovation in the Liberal Arts
• Sadler Center, Commonwealth Auditorium
The COLL curriculum offers W&M students a chance to explore the liberal arts while developing critical skills through all four years of their experience. Courses in the COLL integrate skills and interdisciplinary learning across the university. Learn what you will experience in these exciting courses from one of the pioneers of this program and a professor who teaches COLL classes.
PRESENTER: Dr. Ben Boone, Assistant Dean for Undergraduate Education

MOCK LECTURE
• Integrated Science Center (ISC), Room 1221
C9 The German Dracula You Might Not Know
A lecture by Dr. Jennifer Taylor, Associate Professor of German Studies
German horror films from the 1920s have a huge influence on Hollywood’s depiction of our very scary bad guys. Professor Taylor will discuss films of the Weimar Republic, one of her personal and scholastic interests.

TRIBE TIP

D1/E1 A Path to Active Citizenship: Community Engagement at W&M
- Washington Hall, Room 201
Connecting students to the community through scholarship and service is part of W&M’s central mission. The Office of Community Engagement provides diverse community engagement opportunities to support students as they develop into active citizens.
PRESENTER: Elizabeth Miller, Associate Director, Office of Community Engagement

D2/E2 Go Tribe! Your W&M Next STEP
- Sadler Center, Commonwealth Auditorium
Have you made the decision to join the Class of 2026? Learn about your next steps as a member of our incredible community as we introduce you to the tasks, opportunities and milestones associated with being a new W&M student.
In addition to coordinating your Tribe Guide checklist and New Student Orientation, the Office of Student Transition Engagement Programs also collaborates with campus resources and services to support your unique university experience from Convocation to Commencement. First-generation students and their families are encouraged to attend.
PRESENTERS: Lauren Garrett, Director of Student Transition Engagement Programs, with the Fall 2022 Orientation Area Directors and 2021-2022 Initiative Directors

D3/E3 Panel for Families
- Sadler Center, Tidewater Room AB
Families, while your students are attending the For Students, By Students session, we invite you to listen to current students, parents of current students and Ginger Ambler ’89, Ph.D. ’06, P ’24, the Vice President of Student Affairs, discuss life on campus and answer your questions about the student experience.
PRESENTER: Heather Deere, Interim Director of Parent & Family Programs

D4/E4 For Students, By Students Panel (Admitted Students Only)
- Sadler Center, Chesapeake Rooms ABC
William & Mary is home to over 6,300 dynamic, engaging, quirky and talented students studying across 45 academic departments and participating in almost 500 student clubs and organizations. Ask anything and everything of current W&M undergrads.
 PANELISTS: Current W&M Students

D5/E5 W&M Sustainability, For All Time Coming
- Andrews Hall, Room 101
William & Mary is committed to fostering a flourishing environment, society and economy through connecting and empowering the W&M community, especially students!
Learn about the university’s approach to sustainability, goals and initiatives, and how students can get involved.
From carbon neutrality by 2030, composting, curriculum and internships, there is a lot of green going on at this green and gold campus.
PRESENTER: Sophia Pittaluga, Marketing Student Manager, W&M Sustainability

D6/E6 Welcome to the Neighborhood
- Admission Office, Session Room
Learn how to navigate the housing application process, understand the lifestyle questionnaire and select a roommate and housing assignments. Find out what your first year living on campus will look like in the residence halls and discover the new place you will call “home.”
Learn about self-determination and options for getting involved in your new community.
PRESENTERS: Harriet Randell, Director of Housing & Residence Life, and Shyan Scott, Assistant Director of Residence Life

D7/E7 Pre-Med, Pre-Vet, Pre-Dental, Pre-Pharmacy
- Integrated Science Center (ISC), Room 1127
PRESENTER: Dr. Beverly Sher, Senior Lecturer in Chemistry, Health Professions Advisor

D8/E8 Fine and Performing Arts Panel: Making W&M a Vibrant Community
- Tucker Hall, Room 127A
Come learn about the imagination, inspiration and ingenuity that are integral to the realm of artistic culture. Meet with faculty and student panelists from our art, dance, music and theatre departments to learn how you can pursue your professional goals and foster your creative side during your four years in Williamsburg. Opportunities to major, minor, join a group or an ensemble or pursue elective coursework will be discussed.
PRESENTERS: Dr. Jamie Bartlett, Associate Professor of Music, Matthew Allar, Associate Professor of Theatre, and Student Panelists

MOCK LECTURES
- Integrated Science Center (ISC), Room 1221
D9 1:30 p.m. Mock Lecture: Of Viruses and Men
A lecture by Dr. Randy Coleman, Professor of Chemistry
As the title and global pandemic suggests, this lecture will focus on viruses, what they are, how they function and their interactions with humans. We’ll address some of the good things viruses are being harnessed to do in medicine, some of the commonplace things they do to us that are not so good and some of the extremely dangerous (even deadly) things they do to us.

E9 2:25 p.m. From Wren’s Brain to the Wren Building: Neuroscience at W&M
A lecture by Dr. Pamela Hunt, Professor of Psychological Sciences
Fun with neuroanatomy! We’ll use case studies of individuals with brain damage to talk about the marvels and complexities of the brain and its many areas.
At the end of the lecture, students will be able to see and interact with a real human brain.
