

Fall 2009 Seminar Schedule

W&M Department of Biology

Time: 4pm – Coffee & Tea 3:45pm Location: Millington 117 or as indicated

- Sept. 4th “Naturally Obsessed: The Making of a Scientist” Screening of the critically acclaimed documentary at 4:00 pm in Andrews 101
- Sept. 11th Jonathan Micancin (Department of Biology, The College of William & Mary) “*Species recognition and conservation of the syntopic cricket frogs Acris crepitans and A. gryllus”*
- Sept. 18th no seminar
- Sept. 25th Lisa A. Taneyhill (Dept. of Animal and Avian Sciences, University of Maryland)
“The neural crest: Regulating migration at a Snail's pace”
- Oct. 2nd Craig R. McClain (National Evolutionary Synthesis Center, Duke University)
“An Empire Lacking Food: The Astonishing Existence of Life on the Deep Seafloor”
- Oct. 16th Brennan Harris (Kinesiology & Health Sciences, The College of William & Mary) – Gym rats: Resistance exercise training and endothelial dysfunction
- Oct. 23rd Oliver Kerscher (Department of Biology, The College of William & Mary) “SUMO: a small protein with a big role in DNA repair”
- Oct. 30th Lee A. Dugatkin (Department of Biology, University of Louisville)
“Mr. Jefferson and the Giant Moose” – location: Small 113
- Nov. 6th Rebekah R. Helton (University of Delaware) title: “Investigating Darwin’s tiniest creatures: the viruses of the Galápagos Islands sediments”
- Nov 13th Don Fox (Carnegie Institute of Washington, Department of Embryology)
“Unexpected modes of cell proliferation in the Drosophila gut”
- Nov. 20th Elizabeth Harbron (Department of Chemistry, The College of William & Mary)
“Exploring Stimulus-Responsive Fluorescence”