SARP SEMIANNUAL

W&M STUDENT ACCOUNTABILITY & RESTORATIVE PRACTICES

Representatives of our student groups help facilitate the Pledge each year.

It's been a busy fall for Student Accountability & Restorative Practices!

- We welcomed 1,848 new students to the Tribe in August and shared our commitment to community values through the Honor & Conduct Pledge at the Wren.
- We've emphasized increased collaboration between the Honor Council, Conduct Council, and Conduct & Honor Advisors Program (CHAP) through group trainings & activities focused on personal & professional growth.
- Our Alternative Resolution Pathway continues to engage students in reflective conversations and restorative action plans when they are referred for the conduct process.

SARP's Assistant Director, Marc Sloan, gave a presentation about Hazing policies with colleagues from Randolph-Macon and UVA at the Virginia Student Services Conference in early November.

WELCOME TO OUR NEW GRADUATE ASSISTANT, HELEN BOYD!

We are excited to have a new GA, Helen, in our office this year!

Helen graduated from Virginia Tech with a degree in Medieval History and worked in various higher education roles before returning to graduate school.

She is currently a student in the School of Education, pursuing her M.Ed. in Higher Education Administration.

Helen serves as the advisor for the Conduct & Honor Advisors Program (CHAP), serves as a Case Administrator, and assists with office programming.

When she's not in the office, Helen enjoys baking, cooking, and rewatching her favorite comfort shows.

ARE YOU A SARP ALUMNUS?

A NOTE FROM OUR DIRECTOR

Happy Fall, Everyone!

As you can see, SARP continues to evolve and grow. For example, this year, our Conduct Council students have taken on the role of “case administrator” and have been meeting with students to conduct Alternative Resolution, a process in which the reported student accepts responsibility and works collaboratively to develop an action plan that identifies and remedies the impact of their actions on self, others, and the community. Last year, nearly 85% of our conduct cases resolved using this process grounded in the philosophy of restorative practices.

William & Mary also continues to make its mark on the regional and national level. I currently serve as the Regional Co-Chair of the Association of Student Conduct Administrators, and several of our staff recently presented at ASCA’s Summer Conference. Marc Sloan, our Assistant Director, just won national recognition as the Hank Nuwer Anti-Hazing Hero!

Finally for now, stay tuned to hear more about our SARP Homecoming Reunion in the fall and make plans to connect with friends and meet our current students!

Have a happy and healthy holiday season!
