

GLOBAL SCHOLARS PROGRAM

Launching in Fall 2022!

A year-long program for future leaders

Packaged academic and professional development offerings:

- Starting in August 2022, cohort-specific social and academic activities including meals, panels, field trips, and networking.
- An immersive D.C.-based winter break seminar focused on site visits and industry experts from the global policy world.
Includes meeting with policymakers from the Defense Department, State Department, the National Security Council, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and the U.S. Agency for International Development.
- A spring applied research experience in a global policy-related field Including but not limited to: Chinese development and finance, digital inclusion and governance, global health, international security, and human rights.
- A spring break study abroad trip to Brussels and Paris.
- A summer internship with the flexibility to occur virtually, in Washington, D.C., or internationally.

Students will:

Develop a portfolio of professional and research-related materials.

Be matched with a W&M alumni mentor to support their career objectives.

Learn to converse with confidence with policymakers on a range of current global issues.

Apply global policy and theory to professional, industry-based situations.

Evaluate their professional experience to determine future career path.

Fill out an interest form to receive program and application updates:

bit.ly/GSPinterest

WILLIAM & MARY

The Global Scholars Program is a collaboration between the William & Mary Washington Center and the Global Research Institute.