

Bring your Class to Washington

The W&M Washington Center can also help you:

- Put together a day trip to DC for your class—letting your students talk with experts from virtually any field. From transportation, food, and speakers, to classroom space and site visits—we've got you covered.
- Plan a Conference...
- Research...
- Work from our office...
- Participate in professional development opportunities...

RECENT TRIPS TO DC

EDUC 400 Spring Break Field Trip

Professor Drew Stelljes and his EDUC 400 class visited Washington over Spring Break. The class:

- Visited the DC Public Schools Central Office, Anacostia High School, the US Senate, and Maury Elementary School
- Enjoyed dinner and discussion each night with alums in education and non-profit fields
- Stayed in quality housing for the duration of the visit

Virginia Shakespeare Festival Auditions

Professors Christopher Owens and Tamara Johnson used the Washington Office conference room to host DC auditions for the Virginia Shakespeare Festival. The proximity of the Office to the Dupont Circle Metro station, Union Station, and National Airport gave Professors Owens and Johnson access to actors from around the country.

To schedule a visit to Washington, visit www.wm.edu/comeseedc and fill out an Event Request Form. Yes, it's that easy.

W&M STUDY in DC

Opportunities for Faculty

www.wm.edu/dccenter

WILLIAM & MARY

WASHINGTON CENTER

Teach in DC

DC Semester Program

A full fall/spring semester with three classes, including a speaker series and an internship course.

- Teach an academically rigorous curriculum built around a specific semester theme you create
- Help select your class of up to 18 students
- Live in Washington, DC
- Network with alumni/guest speakers
- Receive your standard salary

www.wm.edu/dcsemester | dcsemester@wm.edu

DC Winter Seminars

A one-week class in January, plus on-campus sessions before and after, including speakers and site visits.

- Teach a seminar course built around a specific theme you create
- Help select your class of up to 25 students
- Live in Washington, DC
- Network with alumni/guest speakers
- Receive compensation in addition to your standard salary

www.wm.edu/dcwinter | dcwinter@wm.edu

DC Spring Break Seminar

A one-week class in March, plus on-campus sessions before and after, including speakers and site visits.

- Teach a seminar course built around a specific theme you create
- Help select your class of up to 25 students
- Live in Washington, DC
- Network with alumni/guest speakers
- Receive compensation in addition to your standard salary

www.wm.edu/dc/spring | dcspring@wm.edu

DC Summer Institutes

A two-week class in May, plus on-campus sessions beforehand, including speakers and site visits and an internship course.

- Teach a seminar course built around a specific theme you create
- Help select your class of up to 20 students
- Live in Washington, DC
- Network with alumni/guest speakers
- Receive compensation in addition to your standard salary

www.wm.edu/dcsi | dcsi@wm.edu

DC Summer Session

Five-week summer classes, 1-3 credits each.

- Teach a popular GER/COLL course
- Live in Washington, DC
- Receive compensation in addition to your standard salary

www.wm.edu/dcsummer | dcsummer@wm.edu

Faculty can teach for William & Mary in Washington, DC through any of our Study in DC academic and internship opportunities.

The Benefits?

- Complete quality research using DC's many museums and cultural institutions – as well as the world's best archives and biggest library.
- Connect with experts in your field and network with DC-area colleagues.
- Experience the advantages of an urban environment while teaching for William & Mary.