W&M DC Spring Break Seminars
Cost to Students for 3-credit seminar

The class fee for DC Spring Break Seminars is $2,500.00.
  • A non-refundable $500 deposit is due:
    • November 5, 2018
  • The entire class fee will be billed to your W&M Student Accounts eStatement upon registration, and the remaining $2,000 of the fee will be due accordingly.
  • If you choose to live in Washington, DC housing provided by the W&M Washington Center during the Seminars, there is the additional non-refundable cost of $600 for a double room or $1,000 for a single room (pending availability).
    • Billed on your February W&M Student Accounts eStatement and is due March 1, 2019

*PLEASE NOTE: Students who wish to drop the class have until the drop deadline on February 6 at 11:59pm to do so. If students drop by this deadline, the $2,500 course fee will be removed, but students will forfeit their previously paid $500 deposit. Students who drop after the February 6 at 11:59pm deadline will still be responsible for all class fees and housing charges. No refunds will be provided, no charges removed after February 6 at 11:59pm. February 26 is the last day to withdraw from the course.

What your $2,500 will Cover
In addition to the academic credit you’ll receive from the College for completing the DC Spring Break Seminars, your $2,500 covers:
  • Lunch each class day
  • Program dinners on opening night and select evenings during the week
  • Subsidized social/cultural events through the seminar
  • A dinner networking event with W&M DC area alums in related field
  • A small Metro pass to get you started with DC area travel

Day-to-Day Costs in DC
The average cost per student will vary. However, most students report spending roughly $70 per week on “groceries and other necessities” and about $40.00 per week on Metro fare.

Dropping/Withdrawing from the Seminar
Your $500 deposit is completely non-refundable at any time.

Financial Aid
DC Spring Break Seminars courses are added to students' Spring 2019 transcripts. Therefore, students may be eligible for financial aid (student or parent loans) to help cover their costs. Contact your Financial Aid Counselor to check your eligibility.

Virginia529
The Virginia529 Prepaid plan only pays the full-time (or part-time for PT students) tuition charge on the student account. It does not pay any individual course or program fees.

If a family has one of the other Va529 programs (inVEST, CollegeAmerica or CollegeWealth) those funds may cover DC program fees depending on the individual program guidelines. Questions regarding your plan may be obtained from the website www.virginia529.com or by calling toll free 888-567-0540.
