September 2015 - Lab News

Former Lab Tech Nick Moore returned this month to train current lab personnel with using the Phenom microscope. Nick is now an Application Engineer at Nanoscience Instruments in Alexandria, Virginia. During his first month at Nanoscience, Nick traveled to Ithaca, New York and Phoenix, Arizona for job related training. It was nice to see that Nick is doing so well in his new career.

Lab Visitors:

Xin Zhao, Vertical Carbon Technologies Founder/CEO, brought a guest to the lab, and Amy was able to provide a tour.

Olga provided assistance to Roy Crooks, Principal Engineer at Black Laboratories, and Dr. Sam Benavides with analyzing a sample using the Hirox microscope.

Waverly Marsh, Research Scientist at Laser and Plasma Technologies, brought several laser paint stripping samples to the lab for analysis.

Amy and Ben are pictured here assisting with a repair to the Time of Flight Secondary Ion Mass Spectrometer (ToF-SIMS).
